

THREE YOUNG AIRMEN ENTER GUILTY PLEAS

FOURTH OF GROUP WILL STAND TRIAL ON BURGLARY
CHARGE

Three of four youthful airmen, scheduled to stand trial this month on second degree burglary charges, appeared voluntarily before Judge John H. Allee in the Putnam circuit court Thursday afternoon and changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty.

The three, Richard Plummer, 18; Joseph Garrett, 18, and Hugh Hall, 20, were accompanied by their attorneys, Francis N. Hamilton and Wilbur S. Donner. The fourth youth, Charles Rosenbaum, 17, will go on trial next Monday, June 7.

The four were specifically charged with entering Halton's tavern in Cloverdale last April 26. Plummer, Garrett and Hall were turned over to Sheriff Joe Rollings by Montgomery county authorities on May 5.

Rosenbaum was picked up on a warrant in Illinois by Sheriff Rollings and State Detective Gene Trowbridge on May 11. All four had been stationed at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

They have been held in jail pending trial after entering pleas of not guilty upon arraignment.

The court was informed by the attorneys for the three changing their pleas that checks to pay Mr. Halton's loss had been received and that the prosecuting witness did not wish to press the more serious charge of second degree burglary. The defense also stated that the three boys had no previous criminal record and that it was felt that sentencing them to the reformatory at Pendleton would not help the state or the boys. The three had also agreed to serve as state witnesses in the trial of Rosenbaum, the court was told.

The boys were questioned regarding the break-in and robbery of the tavern and were cooperative in their answers. The three said they were riding in Rosenbaum's car when they decided to rob the tavern in Cloverdale and that they split the loot four ways.

In order to give the restitution checks time to clear their respective banking houses, Judge Allee remanded the boys to the custody of the sheriff and said that he would sentence them at 9 o'clock on the morning of Monday, June 14.

The bills are drawn on the New York City Federal Reserve Bank and are quite capable of deceiving nine out of 10 merchants, an agent said.

So far, about 25 of them have been passed in taverns, amusement places and business establishments.

Indiana Demos Mold Platform

INDIANAPOLIS, June 4.—(UP)—Indiana Democrats molding their 1954 platform were urged today to face up to multiplying schoolroom emergencies.

The Indiana State Teachers Association, one of 34 groups offering legislative suggestions to the party's platform committee during two days of hearings, presented figures indicating the need for more teachers, more buildings and more state aid.

Robert H. Wyatt, the association's executive secretary, estimated the 750,000 enrollment in Indiana schools today will expand to 1,000,000 in 1960.

"We don't need much more fact-finding," he said. "We need fact-finding."

Wyatt said Indiana needs 2,767 new teachers this year, and present average salaries of $3,600 a year are not enough to attract them. He asked Democrats to support a "substantial increase" in the minimum salary schedule.

He criticized the 1951 General Assembly for boosting the size of classroom teaching units "too high," saying one-fourth of Indiana's elementary classes have more than 40 pupils "which is much too large." He suggested a party plank to give attention to the overcrowded conditions.

Wyatt also proposed more state aid to provide 100 per cent fund distributions, placing some employees of the State Teachers' Retirement Fund on the merit system, and removing the office of state superintendent of public instruction from the ballot.

The Indiana Congress of Parents and Teachers took a similar stand and also urged separation of county education budget from the civil budgets.

HE WAS JUST CHECKING ON HIS GOOD SHOOTING

Capt. D. S. Benson, Cincinnati, center, is shown after he took 10 shots at a silhouette at the Pennsylvania police department elimination shoot at the Putnamville pistol range Wednesday afternoon. He hit the target 10 times, shooting from the hip and was demonstrating to his fellow policemen how to shoot in this kind of an emergency.

However, it remained for the superintendent, John W. Shumaker of Chicago, to lead his men in the target shooting field and he led the list when the final elimination contests was over and the pistol team for the ensuing year was named. He had a top score of 276 out of a possible 300.

Others on the team were W. F. Meekler 276; D. S. Benson, 263; R. D. Gordon, 258; E. Hart, 253; A. D. Morgan, 246; J. C. S. Cleveland, 243; W. H. True, 245.

Mr. True was awarded the McLean gun holster for being chosen the rookie of the shoot. He also received the railroad company's gun case for being chosen the high scoring rookie.

Predict Changes In Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)

Key legislators indicated today the administration's housing bill would be somewhat watered down and altered by the time it is ready for the President's signature.

The Senate shouted down a southern Democratic move to settle President Eisenhower's public housing proposals and then in near-record time passed the overall measure containing most of his other housing recommendations.

It was one of the administration's brightest victories in the current session. But it won't be final until House and Senate conferees meet next Friday to iron out the differences between the House and Senate versions of the measure.

Congressional horse trading in the conference appeared likely to reduce the 140,000-unit public housing program and alter some of the President's other recommendations.

The Senate approved its housing bill by a voice vote after three hours of debate. The only controversy centered around the public housing program in which the government subsidizes rental housing built for low-income families by local authorities.

The southern Democratic move to kill all public housing stemming from fears growing out of a Supreme Court anti-segregation decision.

RUSS. BLUNDER AT CONFERENCE SAYS SENATOR

"REDS STUBBED TOES" AT GENEVA PARLEY SAYS
WILEY

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(UP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley R., Wis., said today Russia has "stubbed its toe" so badly at Geneva that it now appears the free world will be able "to get together on a security pact in Southeast Asia."

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the stubborn and intransigent Communist tactics at the peace conference also may result in French ratification of the European Defense Community, which the Soviet bloc has bent every effort to prevent, and the commitment of more French troops to the Indochina war front.

Wiley made the statement as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was called to testify before the Foreign Relations Committee in support of the administration's $3,500,000,000 foreign aid authorization. It puts a heavy emphasis on Indochina and the Far East.

Questioning of Dulles was expected to center on plans for the defense of Southeast Asia. Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen said Thursday that the administration wants $1,133,000,000 for aid to Indochina and the Far East.

Dulles has already asked the House side for a free hand to apportion that aid in the Far East rather than have most of it funneled through France as at present. That plan has caused some controversy in the House and may be controversial in the Senate as well.

At the same time, U. S., British, French, Australian and New Zealand military leaders continued their secret Pentagon talks on the admittedly worsening situation in Southeast Asia. Informal sources said France outlined the overall problem Thursday and indications were that the group would buckle down today to estimating what might be needed to support any united Allied action against Communist aggression.

See Extension Of Farm Supports

By United Press

Two congressional farm leaders predicted today the House Agriculture Committee will vote to extend present high level farm price supports but they disagreed for how long.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N. C., ranking Democrat on the committee, said the group will "probably" approve a Democratic plan for a three-year extension of the present 60 per cent of parity supports on basic crops.

But a high-ranking Republican member predicted the committee will vote a one-year extension of the present program and provide for a farmer referendum to determine whether a two-price support plan should go into operation in 1956 for wheat and possibly cotton.

Either action would be a defeat for President Eisenhower. He has recommended shifting to a "flexible" or sliding scale system of price props for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts after this year.

Under the present program, the so-called "basic" crops must be supported at 90 per cent of "fair price" parity. The administration (Continued on Page Two)

He called for a showdown vote on supports Monday and said compromise efforts would be renewed as the farm bill moves through Congress.

It's Blackwood On Bridge

'Play Second Hand Low' Can Be Serious Mistake

When you were first learning to play bridge, did you learn the adage, "play second hand low?" That advice will serve you well in most cases, but it is a serious mistake to follow it blindly. South dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

North (Mr. Abel)
S - K 8
H - 9 8 4 3
D - 10 8 2

The bidding:

South West North East
1 N T Pass 2 N T Pass
3 N T All Pass

There are many exceptions and I want to show you a number of situations where you should do just the opposite—that is, play second hand high.

In today's deal Mr. Champion opened the six of diamonds and Mr. Dale killed the king with the ace. Counting his winners he could see three spades, three clubs and (eventually) two diamonds. A ninth trick was available if the clubs broke 3-3.

ANOTHER CHANCE

There was another chance for the ninth trick. A heart winner could be set up if Mr. Masters had at least one of the outstanding honors and if he were kind enough to play second hand low on the first heart lead from dummy.

Mr. Dale went to the board with the king of spades and led back the nine of hearts. Now see what happens if Mr. Masters carelessly (or purposely, for that matter) plays a low card.

Mr. Champion wins with the king of hearts—and that is his last entry. He can set up his diamond suit by surrendering a trick to Mr. Dale's jack, but what good would that do? He now has no possible entry. And Mr. Masters has no more diamonds.

MASTERS PLAYS HIS WAY

But of course Mr. Masters did not go for that second hand low stuff. Not on this deal. He went right in with the ace of hearts and fired a diamond. Mr. Champion won with the queen and led a third diamond, clearing the suit. This way, he had both a set-up suit and entry.

There was nothing for Mr. Dale to do but try for a club split. When this failed to materialize, down he went.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my neighbors, friends and relatives for their prayers, nice cards, letters, flowers and visits.

Of marvel and surprise;
Assured alone that life and death
His mercy underlies.

And so beside the silent sea
I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from Him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
Their fringed palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care.

STAGE JAIL BREAK

LOGANSPOUT, Ind., June 4 (UP)—Authorities sought three of five Cass county fugitives today who escaped after slugging a turnkey.

The two other prisoners, John Snow, 33, and Jack Alexander, Burlington, 18, were apprehended Thursday, less than three hours after they gained their freedom from the county jail. They were arrested by two state troopers walking along a county road west of here.

Still at large were Kenneth Hardy, 26, Logansport; Calvin Hill, 29, Monticello, and Ronnie Willets, 18, Kokomo.

They escaped when Hardy jumped turnkey Oscar Deford, 65, grabbed his keys and unlocked a cellblock.

Four other prisoners in the block refused to join the break, and one of them, Larry Mohroney, alerted sheriff Claude Berkshire.

Meanwhile, Senator Ralph Flanders (R), Vermont (right) charged in a Senate speech that McCarthy is dividing church, party and country and serving the Communist cause through "colossal innocence." ROACHDALE LIBRARY NEWS

The first month of the Summer Reading Club has seen a total of 72 members enrolled, with a circulation of 604 books to these readers. The names of the members have been placed on a large membership roll on the bulletin board.

The attendance at the bi-weekly story hours for the three to six year old children is increasing each time. The next story hour will be Saturday, June 5, at 4 o'clock.

The Philomath Club has given a book to the library in memory of Mrs. Florence Hostetter, who was assistant librarian for several years. The book selected was "A Stillness at Appomattox," by Bruce Catton. This book was given the National Book Award for non-fiction and the Pulitzer Prize for history in 1953.

The Philomath Club's annual gift to the library of ten dollars for books is gratefully acknowledged. The books purchased with this gift are: "State Road 40," by Stewart; "Lincoln's New Salem," by Thomas; "Mothers of America," by Davis; and "The Song of Ruth," by Slaughter.

The library also wishes to express appreciation to the County Federation of Clubs for the gift of "Unity in Diversity," a history of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, by Wells, and to Mrs. Stella Lewis, our former librarian, for a gift of four books: "Hoosier," by Bowman; "The Shepherd of the Hills," by Kimbrough; "Forty-plus and Fanny Free," by Kimbrough; and "Immortal Wife" by Stone.

Other recent books of interest to adults, which are now on our shelves include "Dragon Watch," by Hays; "The Man Who Never Was," by Montagu; "Tomorrow," by Wyllie; and "But We Were Born Free," by Davis.

LOOKING... AT LIFE

By Erich Brandeis

When two people are engaged to be married, it is a good idea for them to watch each other's temperaments and character before the important "I Do" is spoken.

Conflicting temperaments make a happy marriage almost impossible. Divergent characters just about preclude a successful partnership.

The volatile, easily hurt, emotional girl will have a very hard time getting along with the plodding, earnest, quiet man. The not too honest person (the kind that would swipe a neighbor's newspaper when nobody is looking) may have a terrific non-nuptial sex appeal for a future mate. But sooner or later there is bound to be a clash, and most broken marriages are broken by little things.

The same thing, I am afraid, is the case with our international relations.

The French are a dear people, but they are exceedingly emotional. Their feelings are easily hurt. Their hearts rule their brains.

The English, on the other hand, are serious, with not too much of a sense of humor—sometimes as much lacking in humor as we may have too much of it.

I believe that most of our misunderstandings with our so-called "allies" are due not so much to insurmountable differences of principles as to our differences of temperament and character.

understanding."

Just the other night I heard a noted French diplomat say that we Americans hurt the Frenchmen's feelings terribly when we criticize them in our newspapers and say that they don't do the best they can.

"Remember, please," he complained, "that we have lost more than 400,000 men in this seven-year old Indo-China war."

"Are you surprised that we fathers and mothers—and even the top men and women of every nation ARE fathers and mothers—are terribly weary of fighting and of sacrificing our children for a cause which many don't even understand?"

"Don't you think it hurts us when you Americans accuse us of sitting around waiting for YOU to come to our aid to fight our battles for us?"

"It's only because we are exhausted, financially and spiritually, that we need help, that we are so anxious to be helped not only with men and money and arms, but with sympathy and understanding."

Sentiment hasn't much of a place in the Englishman's make-up. So much for so much. Either you trade with him or not. If you don't you are not much good to the Englishman. Feelings? He may have them, too, but he certainly doesn't show them.

I cannot possibly imagine English actors or comedians making fun of something in their own country that is the equivalent of such a sorry spectacle as the Army-McCarthy hearings. To them, politics like everything else is a serious business. "A point of order" is a point of order and not a funnyman's joke.

So, before our nation goes into marriage with either the French or the British, we had better take their national character into consideration.

Then, instead of saying "I Do," perhaps we might stay single.

WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

NO LAUGHING MATTER LATER

The answers to everyday insurance problems

By SIMPSON STONER

QUESTION: A short time ago we were involved in a minor collision with our car and although there was no damage to either car, the other driver did get a bad bump on his head. He said he was all right and to forget it so we didn't report it but friends tell us complications could arise from that bump and that we should report it to our Insurance Company. Is this so?

ANSWER: Yes. That bump constitutes a Personal Injury and should be reported immediately to your insurance Company.

* If you'd address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.
